Speaker Reed's recent rulings are denounced by the democrats as the greatest outrages upon parliamentary proceedings ever inflicted upon the people of this country. That they are going to fight every inch of ground, however, has been determined upon. Reed's arbitrary ruling yesterday was only a preliminary step or an entrance wedge, as it were. He is evidently going further. Here is the programme: Senator Quay has taken a hand in the house proceedings, and is advising the best political course to be pursued. He has called upon the president and advised with him. Quay requested that he be allowed to say to the leading republicans in the house, that the president and he thought the best course for the house to pursue was to proceed with legislation under the rules adopted for the consideration of a measure as it comes up, or to make rules to suit the occasion and proceed in this manner, giving the speaker absolute power until the contested election cases had been disposed of. Then the republicans would have a sufficient majority to enact a code of rules that would go to the utmost extreme, giving the majority unlimited power and taking away from the

With such rules the republican party could enact legislation to suit themselves and such legislation that will assure the re-election of a republican house and executive. President Harrison consented. Then Quay talked with Reed and the republican house leaders, who decided to adopt such a course of proceedure.

And they proceeded at once to attempt to put it in effect, for this afternoon, after the debate

Judge Stewart's Prison Bill.
Washington, January 22.—[Special.]— Judge Stewart's federal prison bill was under discussion nearly all of the day in the house. Amendment after amendment was, however, offered and the bill was not voted upon. Judge Stewart had charge of the matter on the floor, and made the opening speech. He said five presidents and two attorney generals had recommended such prisons. He referred to the friction between the federal and state authorities as to the management of federal and gave that as a reason for the necessity of passing the bill. He then showed that some states had refused to accept federal prisoners in their jails and penticularies. He showed that taking prisoners from a warm to a cold climate for imprisonment ruined their health. It often produced death and was barbarous. He stated the cost of keeping prisoners under the present system to be $400,000 annually, which is the interest on $10,000,000 at four per cent. That his bill only required an outlay of $1,000,000, and that the prisoners would be self-supportant.

The bill will, in all probability, pass. Then the president and attorney general, or secretary of the interior, will have to decide upon the locations.

ATLANTA WILL HAVE TO WORK. Heretofore it has been considered quite probable that Atlanta would get the southern one, but it is understood there will be a fight on it. St. Louis, Louisville, Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, and other cities south of the thirty-ninth degree, besides Atlanta, will enter the contest and it is going to take some lively hustling on the part of the Georgia delegation and the citizens of Atlanta to get that, if Atlanta can get it at all.

The House Discusses Mr. Stewart's Bill for the Erection of Prisons. WASHINGTON, January 22.—After routine morning business, the house resumed, in committee of the whole, consideration of the Oklahoma town site bill. The third section-the only one remain ing in dispute—was finally adopted. The commit-tee rose and the bill was passed. Mr. Stewart, of Georgia, from the committee on the judiciary, reported a bill authorizing the at-torney general and the secretary of the interior to purchase two sites—one to be located north and one south of the thirty-ninth degree of north latitude—and to erect thereon buildings for the con-finement of 'United States prisoners, at a cost of of the whole.

bill must receive its first consideration in committee of the whole.

The speaker overruled the point of order, and Mr. Holman took an appeal.

The decision of the speaker was sustained—yeas, 143; navs. 122.

Then Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, moved that the house go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the bill. This was agreed to.

In committee, Mr. Holman raised the point of order that the bill was not in committee of the whole; but the chairman, (Burrows), of Michigan, held that the motion of Mr. McCreary carried the bill to the committee. upon a plan of procedure. All the leading democrats favor making a fight on everything that comes up until rules are adopted. In other words, they will decide to completely block legislation by refusing to vote and demanding a quorum until rules are adopted. They think it impossible for Reed to get around this, but

THE BLAIR BILL. The Senate Has Named a Day for Its Consid-

WASHINGTON, January 22.—The senate resumed consideration of the bill that was discussed resterday to require the superintendent of the census to ascertain what percentage of people own their farms, the number of farms under mortgage and the amount thereof.

Discussion was kept up for nearly two hours, going largely ower the questions of the tariff, of silver, of over-production, and of steamship subsidies. It was participated in by Messrs. Teller, Morrell, George. Stewart, Spooner, Vest, Blair Plumb, Berry, and Reagan. Finally, Mr. Hale, chairman of the census committee, expressed his willingness to have the bill recommitted, as suggested by Mr. Teller, and his belief that that would be the best disposition of it. The committee would then undertake to perfect the bill and would report it back at an early date.

The question of recommittal was taken by yeas and nays. The first vote resulted in yeas 22, nays 14.

As this was no quorum voting there was a call of the senate, which showed fifty-three senators present, few of them participated, however.
Then Mr. Hale proposed that the voting be taken by division, but Mr. Vest, who opposed the recommittal and wished the bill passed as it is, objected.

mittal and wished the bill passed as it is, objected.

The second vote resulted: Yeas 26, nays 20, accomplished by the transfer of pairs, and the bill was recommitted to the census committee.

The senate then took up the calendar.

The Blair educational bill having been reached, Mr. Blair demanded its reading in full, and the secretary proceeded to read it.

At the close of the reading, Mr. Harris suggested that as the bill was now properly before the senate, and had to become "unfinished business," unless some other arrangement were made by consent, the senator from New Hampshire should fix a special day in the future when it would become a special order and remain so until final action. There were several senators now absent who desired to discuss the measure.

Mr. Blair declined to forego the advantages of the position which the bill now had.

After some discussion it was arranged, by unanimous consent, that the education bill be postponed till Monday week, and be then "unfinished business."

After the passage of some local bills, and a brief executive session, the senate adjourned.

The commissioners were also instructed that the conference was to be regarded as a continuation of the efforts already made, and not as the initiation of a new conference on another basis, inasmuch as the United States could not admit the conditions to have been changed by any subsequent occurrences in the south Paciac. The subjects as to which the commissioners were instructed fell under five heads: First. They were directed to ask the restoration of the status que, in order to remove the disturbance caused by the forcible intervention of Germany and the deportation of Malietoa. This was not to be an ultimatum, however, which would close the conference. Second. The organization of a stable governmental system for the islands, whereby native independence and autonomy should be preserved, free from the control or preponderating influence of a forcign government. Third. The adjustment of land claims. Fourth. The prohibition of the sale of fire-arms and alcoholic liquors. Fifth. The question of the municipal administration of the as a foreign settlement under the reservation of extrateritorial rights. The secretary says:

"The protocols of the several sessions, herewith submitted, show the discussion which took place on each of these important heads, and indicate the successive stages by which the wiews of the three governments thereon come into harmony. The result is, in the main, entirely in accord with the instructions which the American plenipotentiaries acted. It is proper to observe that the matters in respect of which an agreement seemed most difficult were the restoration of the status que, the formation of a stable government without the preponderance of influence on the part of any of the treaty powers, and the raising of revenue for the maintenance of the status due to an unqualified renewal of the status which existed when the conferences of Washington were held, was found in the reluctance of Germany to admit such a situation as would appear to leave Mutaafa, against whom she had declared war, eligibl den which, by the force of circumstances, it has been necessary to impose in the protection of their common interests and for the maintenance of peace and order.

"In conclusion the secretary expresses thelhope that the act may be condusive to the good government of Samoa under native autonomy and to the lasting settlement of the vexed questions, which have agitated the three powers in their complex relations to these islands."

The enclosures begin with the general act signed at Berlin, June 14th, last, in regard to the neutrality find autonomous government of the Samoan islands, and providing for the equal rights therein of the three governments and their subjects.

Then follow the protocols of the conference from April 20th until June 14th. These show, step by step, how the treaty was constructed. The first four days' proceedings were devoted to the question of land titles, establishment of a supreme court, the municipal government of Apia and the taxation and revenue of Samoa. In the thirtieth day's session, while the form of government was under consideration, Count Bismarck, while accepting the principle of the election of a king, said that he was bound to make one exception in person of Mataafa on account of outrages committed by his people on the dead and wounded German sailors, lying dead and wounded on the field of action. The British representative considered the exceptions as fair and said that a peaceful election was not then possible, and that the only solution of the difficulty was the acceptance of the American suggestion for the restoration of the status quo and the reinstatement of Malietoa. Count Bismarck accepted the suggestion as sensible, and Mr. Kasson suggested that it be referred to the committee on review. The protocols close with an expression of esteem entertained by the British and American commissioners for Count Bismarck who rendered efficient services as presiding officer, with fairness and impartiality.

vs. Jackson.

Washinoton, January 22.—By a strict party vote, the house elections committee today decided to report in favor of unseating Jackson, democratic representative from West, Virginia, declaring Smith, republican contestant, entitled to a seat. This is first of the seventeen contested election cases which the committee has disposed of, and it was the first one upon which argument was heard.

and it was the first one upon which argument was heard.

After talking over the case for a time, the committee decided that it would be useless to undertake to dissect the evidence taken, as several days would be consumed in the process, and the members of the committee were well acquainted with the facts and legal points involved. There will, of course, be two reports, which it is expected will be presented to the house tomorrow. Mr. Dalzell will probably set forth the majority view, and Mr. Crisp will represent those of the minority.

THE IOWA DEADLOCK.

Settlement Seems Further Off than Ever.

Des Moines, Ia., January 22.—The deadlock in the legislature continues, and the election of United States senator and the inauguration of the new democratic governor seem further off than ever. How the two parties stand was sharply defined in the lower house this afternoon. Richman, of Muscatine, in a speech, said the democratightly demanded the speakership, because a majority of the voters were with them and would sustain the demand. Mr. Chase, republican, spoke in reply, saying the republicans had a majority on many questions, especially prohibition, and they proposed to stand together. Four fruitless ballots were taken and the house adjourned till tomorrow. The senate adopted a resolution—20 to 7—stopping the introduction of bills until the legislature is fully organized. Ever.

tived here today, and will present the following to President Harrison tomorrow morning:

Washington, D. C., January 22, 1890.—To His Excellency, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States—Mr. President: Endorsing as we do, the sentiments as expressed in your message to congress, regarding the rights of Afro-Americans, who form such a large and potent element of the political party with which you are identified, we have the honor to inform you that we have been appointed by the executive committee of the National Afro-American league, under instructions of the national convention, held in the city of Chicago, the 15th, 16th and 17th insts., to petition the executive and congress for the enactment of such laws, and the enforcement of those already enacted, as will secure to us our rights as citizens guaranteed under the national constitution and its amendments. Recent outrages in the south, and those committed against us in the discharge of our rights in the selection of our national representatives at each succeeding election, are becoming more appalling and astroctous. We are only citizens in name. Our will at the ballot-box is completely thwarted, and the result is an unjust representation given to our enemies to the great detriment of ourselves and the entire nation. It cannot be denied that this is all unjust and destructive of the aims intended by the supreme law of the land. The nation having enemies to the great detriment of ourselves and the entire nation. It cannot be denied that this is all unjust and destructive of the aims intended by the supreme law of the land. The nation having given to us our freedom, as well as our civil and political rights, we can but look to it as lawabiding citizens.

The protection of that freedom and those rights by the enforcement of a republican form of government in each state claiming to be sovereign, yet denying the right of suffrage, which must always be above that of state sovereignty. In most of the southern states we are denied the rights guaranteed to us in the selection of president and vice president and national representatives. We have no representation in the jury box in but few counties of any of these states, nor have we a fair trial by the courts of those states where lynch law and mob violence prevail. We would, therefore, respectfully ask the president of the United States to do all in his power to right these wrongs. We have also been instructed to petition the national congress for the passage of the Blair educational bill, so that the illiterate classes of both races in the south may be enabled more intelligently to discharge the duties of citizenship, since under the present educational system in the south that cnd can never be attained.

Ex-Governor Hagood was invited to address the convention, and did so. The meeting was in session all day. Resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting, that it is expedient for the colored people of Barnwell to emigrate from this county to other states, or other parts of this state, or anywhere where life would be safer than they regard it now in Barnwell, were offered. Governor Hagood, who has the unshaken confidence of the negroes, has advised them not to act hastly. During his address, he was asked whether in future he would guarantee their safety. He replied he could not, but, judging the future by the past, he thought that the races could get on well together; that the lynching that had taken place was the first in the history of the county, and that the general record of the past ought to be the best guarantee for the future; that no white man could or would justify the lynching that had occurred, and that no good white man could possibly have had a hand in it. The negroes will probably emigrate. The streets and by-ways of the village are crowded with the emigrants and their symyathizers, and are filled with their effects. There are several agents representing the railroads, and it is probable that several indifferent. Two car loads of negroes left Pomona, in Newberry county, today, for the west. The troops from this city were due at that point about 10 o'clock tonight, having been met by a special steamer this morning at River Junction. The town is being guarded by the local militia, and every citizen is armed. It is rumored that threats have been made bylsome of the negroes to burn the town. The ringleaders of the strike will be arrested tomorrow when trouble may ensue, but the whites are prepared for any emergency. The negroes are not making any demonstration. Jackson, Miss., January 22.—(Special.)—There was no session of the Mississippi legislature to-day. The house of representatives is beautifully decorated, evergreens and crape mingling. Mrs. Davis is not here, on account of illness, but the committee brought from Beauvoir several relics, the property of the ex-chieftain's widow, which are among the decorations. Among them are a life-size picture of Mr. Davis, a confederate flag, the bonnie bine flag; the sword of Buena Vista, while the sword of Lee stands by; clusters of oranges and evergreens from the Beauvoir garden.

the bonnie blue flag; the sword of Buena Vista, while the sword of Lee stands by; clusters of oranges and evergreens from the Beauvoir garden. The programme was a very elaborate one. Judge Campbell, of the supreme court, Senator Wilson and General Sharpe, of the house, were the orators. The following resolutions were adopted:

The senate and house of representatives of the state of Mississippi, assembled in joint convention, in memory of Jefferson Davis, her most illustrious citizen and public servant, resolve to record of him that he gave to the public service the greater part of a life made brilliant and memorable by the display of a high endowment of mind and spirit, and was never tempted, by popularity or success, to devinte from the line of duty; that in the several promotions through which he reached the highest grade of public employment, he regarded each added honor not as a personal reward, but as a demand by his country for greater zeal and greater effort to meet greater responsibilities. That as a soldier and commander he gave renown to the state troops, and in the civil service of the state and the United States his achievment reflected honor upon Mississippi, and imparted lustre and influence to his position. That he loved his state and gave to her behests absolute obedience. That the confidence, admiration and affection given to him in such full measure by the people of the south did not arise out of any mistake or misconception of character, but were founded upon the positive knowledge of his excellence, as shown both in public and private life, during periods of common peril and temptation, and throughout a long, varied and illustrious career; that his patriotism, courage, constancy and delity were of that high class of public virtues which makes the true glory of states and nations, and commends his name to future generations as an example of all that is elevated in human conduct.

uth Carolina Farmers to Hold a Con

Columbers, S. C., January 22.—[Special.]—Q. W. Shell, president of the Farmers' association, of South Carolina, has furnished the state press to-day with a three column address to the democracy of South Carolina from the executive compilted of the association, which will be published to-morrow, and the address, opens by the statement that:

morrow, and the address, opens by the statement that:

"For four years the democratic party in the state has been deeply agitated, and efforts have been made at the primaries and conventions to secure retreachment and reform, and a recognition of the needs and rights of the masses."

The claim is then advanced that the farmers' association organized in 1886, represents the reform element of the democratic party in this state, and that it was only by a small vote they failed of controlling the last democratic state conventon. Continuing, it says: "It is believed the time has come to show the people what they need, and how to accomplish their desire," and then is given an indictment against those who have, and are still governing the state. The following is an expect: "South Carolina has never had a real republican government. Since the days of the lord's proprietors, it has been an aristocracy, under the forms of democracy, and whenever a champion of the people has attempted to show them their rights and advocated those rights on the aristocratic oligarchy, has bought him with an office, or failing in that turned loose the floodgates of misrepresentation and shander in order to destroy his influence. The peculiar situation now existing in the state, requiring the united efforts of every true white man to preserve white supremacy and our very civilization even, has intensified and tended to make permanent the conditions which existed before the war. The fear of division among us and the consequent return of negro rule has kept the people quiet, and they have submitted to many grievances imposed by the ruling faction because they dreaded to risk such a division."

Great progress it claimed for the farmers's movement and the state senate is styled "the main reliance of the enemies of retrenchment and reform." A renewal of the pledges to unite for reform within the party is asked and all classes are called on to help purify and reform the democratic party of the state and to give a government by the people.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS. Killing of Supervisor McMillan Near Bruns wick Yesterday.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., January 22.—[Special.]—N. A.
McMillan, supervisor of the Brunswick division of the East Tennesse, Virginia and Georgia railroad, was the victim or a fatal accident, which occurred eighteen miles from here this morning.
Mr. McMillan was aboard construction train No.

Specking toward Branswick Lust Mr. McMillan was aboard construction train No. 3 backing toward Brunswick. Just as the train turned a curve near the eighteenth milepost the engineer saw a pole car a short distance ahead, reversed the lever and blew for brakes. Supervisor McMillan was on the foremost end of the first car, which was a flat car, and the brakes were applied so suddenly as to throw him on the track. The wheels passed over him, crushing the right knee and leg and left foot and ankle into an unsightly shape. He was taken up, put in a berth in the conductor's car and brought to Brunswick. Drs. Dunwoody, Tucker and Bishop were summoned, and all medical skill could devise done to relieve the sufferer.
All efforts proved futile. He lingered until 7 o'clock tonight, and breathed his last. All during the day he prayed that he might live to see his wife and children. The sad death brought tears to the eyes of many. Deceased leaves a wife and three children. He home is at Eastwan His re.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

The Pacific Railroads Clearing Their Tracks for Trains.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jaunary 22.—(Special.)—The train dispatcher on the Central Pacific this morning reports the situation on that road as follows: Favorable weather yesterday enabled satisfactory progress to be made at all points and a great deal was accomplished. The road is now open from Sacramento to Towles, and castbound train No. 4 will leave Sacrament at midwight. The road is Sacramento to Towles, and castbound train No. 3 will leave Sacramento at midnight. The road is also open from Prospect Cut, about five miles east from Towles, to Truckee, with the exception of a piece about a mile and a half at Cascade, where the sheds were burned last summer and have not been rebuilt. This section of a mile and a half has not been worked on at all. There are thus left two sections of five miles and a mile and a half, respectively.

How the Report Started.

London, January 22.—Nothing has been published here in regard to the report that the Bank of England had recently been a heavy purchaser of silver bullion, and was contemplating an issue of pound notes redeemable in silver as soon as the necessary authority could be obtained. Silver bullion is one-eighth of a penny lower per ounce today. The Bank of England rate of discount continues at six per cent, as for some time past. The prevailing opinion seems to be that the present report that such a plan is to be adopted by the Bank of England is based on the revival of an old story that Mr. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, intends to introduce a bill in parliament asking the banking authorities to issue notes.

The Missing Steamer.

The Missing Steamer. LONDON, January 22 .- The National line steamer LONDON, January 22.—The National line steamer Erin, from New York for London, has now been out twenty-five days, and there is hardly any doubt in maritime circles that some disaster has befallen her. The fears concerning her safety have been greatly augmented by the report made by the British steamer Creole, at Bremen, from New Orleans, which, January 5th, saw a steamer's life-boat adrift, bearing the name "Erin." The Creole brought the boat alongside, and took from it ten ash oars and a mast and sail. A life brusy, a steamer's bridge and awning were also seen floating near the life-boat.

A Count to Visit Us.

A Count to Visit Us.

London, January 22.—Several London and Paris papers publish a report that the count of Paris, on the termination of his present trip to Lisbon, will not return to London, but will visit the United States, where he will remain two months, or until the anti-British feeling now prevailing in Portugal's appeased. The report says that the count, who is father-in-law of King Carlos of Portugal, and who hold intimate relations with members of the British court, deems it best, at the present juncture, to take a trip abroad.

The Cott on Market in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 22.—[Special.]—Up-land cotton is very buoyant. It went up an eighth resterday, and another eighth today. At the 1 o'clock call, middlings were quoted at 10%. This is fifteen-sixteenths higher than at the opening of the month. The Liverpool market was very firm. New York seems to be short, and is being firm. New York seems to be short, and is being squeezed by Liverpool. Here in Savannah there is very little doing. The tone is following the Liverpool market. Buyers are keeping out, and there is not even much inquiry, but when sales are made full quotations have to be given, as the sellers are firm. The steady advance has been followed by a great deal of local speculation, though, perhaps, mostly on a small scale. Sea islands are quiet.

CORDELE, Ga., January 22.—[Special.]—A man who gave the name of Hall, and a woman with him, was arrested here for attempting to desert their babe, yesterday. Hall got off the train at Arabi, on the Georgia Southern rail-road, and, with the baby in his arms, proceeded to the house of Mr. William McKenzie, told Mrs. McKenzie he had taken the baby to take care of when in Florida, and asked her would she not take care of it a few days till he could get some one to take it permanently. Mrs. McKenzie consented and Hall left the baby and $10 with her, and was seen to go to the railroad station, where he met ing this way. Mr. McKenzie thought this looked suspicious, so he wired the chief of police of this city to detain Hall and the woman. The two were arrested promptly, and the matter thoroughly investigated. Both claimed not to know each other, but were seen talking together before being arrested. The matter was settled by one of Cordele's kindhearted citizens adopting the child. It is supposed Hall and the woman are man and wife and were trying to desert the child.

TWO GOOD PROJECTS

Advanced to the City Council by Chairma Walker, of the Board of Health.

Advanced to the City Council by Chairman Walker, of the Board of Health.

Macon, Ga., January 22.—[Special.]—There is a project on foot between the city and county to drain the surface water of the swamp lands below the city in order to make better the general health of the lower part of town, and perhaps of the entire city. The cost, it is estimated, will not be over $2,000, perhaps not more than $1,500. The county, it is understood, has already expressed itself willing to pay half of the expenses. Chairman Walker, of the board of health, is very much in favor of the scheme. He advances to city council another matter of great importance. It is in reference to the suburban population of Macon: He says, in his report to council:

East Macon, Vineville, Huguenin Heights and that territory south and west of Boundary street, have a population of ten or twelve thousand inhabitants. These people have no health department or sanitary regulations to co-operate with the health department of Macon, in preventing the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases or suppressing any epidemic that may find a lodgment here. Their close approximation would retard any effort on the part of the Macon health department in preventing the introduction and spread of epidemics. In a sanitary point of view, an epidemic of yellow fever or small pox at either one of these points, means an epidemic for Macon. This is a matter of paramount importance to Macon's health and interest. We think it the duty of your board to confer with the county commissioners, and advise the organization of a county board of health."

"He then left and did not return for several days. Meanwhile he began taking his meals at Folsom's Reading Room, and would come in and sit down at the lunch-counter, or a table, and call to the servants to bring him something to eat. They would ask what he wished, and he would remark:

"Oh, breakfast, dinner or supper! Anything, I don't care whether it is morphine or whisky."

Then he would mutter something about being unable to fight all of them, "and the balance of the devils."

Mr. Folsom saw that there was something wrong about the man, and asked Captain Manly to instruct his men to watch him, as he feared he was insane and might do some harm.

He continued to call at the restaurant, and Tuesday he went to the stationhouse and asked to see the blind boy. His actions were so queer that the officers thought him drunk at first, but after talking with him awhile they found that he was insane.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

A Train Hand Knocked Off by the Iron Bridge at Austell. Harry Williams, a negro brakeman, underwent thrilling experience at Austell yesterday

He was on a west-bound freight train on the Georgia Pacific railroad, and just before the train reached Austell the engineer blew for brakes. Williams started to turn on the brakes and he was struck by the iron bridge and knocked from the train.

Infalling he caught hold of the bumpers and clung to them for a mile before his perilous position was discovered. The train was then stopped, and he was removed from the bumpers and sent back to Atlanta.

Dr. floy was summoned, and examined Williams, finding that he was very badly bruised, but no bones were broken. He was suffering great pain when seen, shortly before midnight, but was removed to his home, where Dr. Roy did what he could for the relief of the man. It was fortunate that he had the presence of mind to catch and cling to the bumpers, or otherwise he would have been mangled beneath the wheels.

By a strange coincidence, Mr. W. M. Graham, of Sumter, S. C., was at the Markham, and hearing of the suicide, he appeared before the jury and fully identified the man as Kopff, a bookkeer for A. A. Soloman, a merchant in that town. He has a widowed mother and sister there, who have been greatly distressed since he left there, some months ago, and it is supposed that they were not aware of his whereabouts. His brother died a short time ago, and two or three weeks ago he left his home without saying where he was going.

The mother and sister own a nice home and Kopff need not have suffered for lack of money. He was always a quiet, inoffensive man. He was about thirty-five years of age, and unmarried.

HIS APPEARANCE IN ATLANTA.

The first that was learned of his appearance in Atlanta was about the 15th of January, when he went to a pawnbroker and pawned a silver watch for $3.25. He gave his name there as "A. C. H. Knowles." He never 'returned for the watch.

About a week ago he introduced himself to two gentlemen in a store as A. C. H. Knowles, saying that he was from Sumter, S. C.

Yesterday he approached a man on Marietta street and said:
"Can a man get anything to do in this town?"

"Can a man get anything to do in this town?"
"What do you want to do?"
"I am a bookkeeper, but I am willing to do almost anything to help feed the babies," he replied, and walked on. That was about 4:30.
All efforts to arrive at some clue as to his conduct in trying to change his name from Kopft to Knowles were fruitless, and the only solution of the mystery of his death was that he had come to the city in search of work, and failing to get anything to do, he exhausted the ne had come to the city in search of work; and failing to get anything to do, he exhausted the little money that he could raise by pawning his watch, and becoming disheartened he shot himself. GENERAL LEE IN GEORGIA. Two Visits to This State-When and

The Brunswick Times tells of General Lee's two visits to southeast Georgia, one in 1861 and one in General Lee's birthday is of more than passing interest to Brunswick, and Georgia, from the fact that the general himself has twice visited here, and also because his father, Light Horse Harry Lee, of revolutionary fame, is buried on Cumberland island.

and also because his father, Light Horse Harry Lee, of revolutionary fame, is buried on Cumberland island.

THE FIRST VISIT of General Robert E. Lee to this section was in 1861, when he came to inspect the fortifications at Fernandina, Cumberland and St. Simon's.

Many of the old members of the Brunswick Riflemen remember this visit, for they were in quarters at Camp Semmes at the timo. Many, too, are the pleasant memories of that visit. How General Lee came to their quarters, accompanied by his full staff, without having given them a moment's warning; how the vessel which brought him, the steamer Reliance, steamed up in front of their camp one morning just at sunup; how the general was amused at the palmetto tents that had been erected by the members of the company instead of the canvas tents provided for them.

These and other incidents of that visit are often thought of by the old members of the Riffemen.

It was General Lee's second visit, however, that was of most interest to Brunswick people.

THIS VISIT WAS MADE in the spring of 1870, about five months before General Lee's death. It became generally known throughout the place that he would arrive by steamer from Savannah on a certain day en route to visit his father's tomb at Dungeness.

At last the day for the arrival of the steamer, Ilizzie Baker, which was then plying between Fernandina and Savannah on a certain day en route to visit his father's tomb at Dungeness.

At last the day for the arrival of the steamer, Ilizzie Baker, which was then plying between Fernandina and Savannah, came around. It was on this vessel that General Lee was coming, and when she arrived at her docks almost the entire populace was gathered there to meet the honored commander of the armies which defended the "lost cause." The enthusiasm was great. Even those who fought on the opposite side in the great struggle were there to shake the hand of "the world's greatest general."

For three hours General Lee was in Brunswick, and during the entire time he was kept busy shaking ha

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEET FOR THE FIRST TIME.

Colonel W. Y. Atkinson Elected Pre-

and the Terms of Office Settled by Lot—
The Prospects Discussed.

The first meeting of the board of trustees of the Georgia State Normal and Industrial school, was held yesterday morning, at the capitol. The members of the board are:

Hen. W. Y. Atkinson, of Coweta; Hon. F. G. duBignon, of Chatham; Hon. A. S. Clay, of Cobb; Hon. Patrick Walsh, of Richmond; Hon. T. F. Newell, of Baldwin, and Hon. R.

N. Lamar, of Baldwin,
At 11 o'clock every member was present, and the meeting was called to order. It was decided that the first duty was to elect a president and secretary, which resulted in the unanimous choice of Colonel W. T. Atkinson as president and Hon. R. N. Lamar as secre-The office to which Mr. Atkinson was elected makes him ex-officio a trustee of the state university.

The act of the legislature which created the board, provided that the members chosen by the governor should serve different periods. Two members would continue in office two years, two others for four years, and three members should hold their places for six years. The act also provided that the length of service should be settled by lot. In compliance with the law, seven slips of paper were placed in a hat by Secretary Lamar, and each gentleman drew one. The result was that Messrs. Atkinson and duBignon will serve two years, Messrs. Clay and Newell four, and Messrs. Walsh, Walker and Lamar will serve for six years. As there was no further business possible, the meeting adjourned to meet at Milledgeville on the 1st of

Then the members of the board discuss the prospects of the industrial school for over an hour. It was decided that when the board meets in Milledgeville an examination of the property donated by the state to the institution will be made, and if it is not found suitable efforts will be made to secure some other site on which to locate the buildings. The act of the legislature, leaving it entirely to the discretion of the board to use the land donated or not, so long as the school is located at Milledgeville.

The property is now rented, and is bringing.

The property is now rented, and is bringing in $850 a year, which, since the first of January, has been placed to the credit of the board of directors. It was thought possible that it might be best to continue the lease. No board of directors. It was thought possible that it might be best to continue the lease. No decision was reached, however.

Another subject of vital interest, which was informally considered, was that of obtaining the money to build the houses necessary. The first appropriation will not be available until 1891, and it is then dependent on the lease of the State road. The $850 income from the property donated was not considered sufficent to be of much practical use where thousands will be needed immediately.

The people of Milledgeville are enthusiastic on the subject of the school, and they have agreed to donate $10,000 toward the buildings. The board thought it possible that this money might be obtained immediately, or that the city might advance the necessary money and take as security the appropriation which will become due in 1891.

Another plan discussed was to make terms with some contractor, if such an one could be found, who would erect the buildings and wait until next year for payment.

found, who would erect the buildings and wait until next year for payment.

The board decided that the very earliest date by which the Normal school could be placed in operation would be the fall of 1891.

During the afternoon the governor issued commissions to the members of the board according to the term of service which had been decided by lot.

An Open Letter.

Supplementary to a communication which appeared in the papers of this state some weeks ago, I now beg to call public attention further to the matter of saving pork. Very shortly after the open letter referred to, there was quite a change in the temperature of the weather, the thermometer having risen to the freezing point in the latitude of Atlanta. But changes may and doubtless will occur that will seriously endanger, the meat crop, particularly the joints. I have actively investigated the methods heretofore pursued by others, both as to the best way to save pork which was slaughtered during these Indian summers and escaped taint, and also those who were less fortunate and who managed to save their meat after the tain thad set in. In a former letter the plan of saving meat in New Zealand, where the thermometer ranges the year round from 54 degrees to 74 degrees Farenheit, was given by Mr. Edward Parsons, of this city, many years a resident of that degrees Farenheit, was given by Mr. Edward Parsons, of this city, many years a resident of that country, which was as follows:

Kill, cut up and dry salt for forty-eight hours. Then make a pickle or brine strong enough to float an egg or Irish potato, to which add a half ounce of saltpeter for every hundred pounds of pork. In this pickle place the meat, turning it over every day for the first week, every two days for the second week, and every three or four days for the third and fourth weeks. It is then ready to be hung up and smoked.

Mr. J. M. Williams, of Hawkinsville, Pulaski county, and an old resident of lower Georgia, kindly furnishes me the following recipe for removing the taint from joints. He is confident that where the joints are not too badly tainted that the subjoined method will restore the affected parts almost, if not quite, to their original health-lul condition:

Make a strong tea of cayenne or red pepper, and harts almost, it not quite, to their original neathful condition:

Make a strong tea of cayenne or red pepper, and set to boil. Take the hams and shoulders, and having opened the joints, dip them in the boiling fluid, holding them in it for from a half to a minute. After taking them out, fill the opening in the joints with salt and pack away, covering well with clean salt. I have used this method for many years, and never knew it to fail to save meat.

Mr. Edgar Dozier, of this city, son of the late John R Dozier, a prominent farmer of Mascogee county, this state, gives the following as his father's method of handling meat which gave indication of taint, and says that he never lost a pound so treated:

Make a strong brine of salaratus in one pot father's method of handling meat which gave indication of taint, and says that he never lost a pound so treated:

Make a strong brine of salaratus in one pot and a very strong decoction in another. Set both to boil, and having unjointed the hams and shoulders, dip them first in the boiling brine and then in the decoction of salaratus, holding them in each about a minute. Then hang up to dry, sometimes smoking them.

Another prominent agriculturalist suggests the following, which he has used for years with the most satisfactory results:

For 1,000 pounds of meat mix with 100 pounds of salt, two pounds of saltpeter, one and one-half pounds of cloves, one pound of cayenne-pepper, six pounds of brown sugar, and dissolve the whole in water. Then boil slowly and skim well until the brine is strong enough to float an egg. If necessary add more salt, Trim meat well and pack in water-tight barrels, and when the compound is cold pour in until the meat is covered and weight down so as to keep the meatsubmerged. Keep on hand enough of the compound so as to add as it evaporates. In four or five weeks the meat will be ready to hang up, then take it out, wash well and hang up to dry. This should be done in dry weather, and it would be well to dry out with slow fires. When thoroughly dry take down and sew up neatly in a covering of shirting or ducking, which cover well with a paste made of two parts lime and one part of wheat shorts or flour. See that the paste is put on thick enough to exclude the air. Hang up in cool, dry place, and the meat will keep for years.

It should be borne in mind, that the skipper fly commences its depredations any time between the 15th of February and the last of March. It is important, therefore, all meat this year being killed late, to protect it against their ravages, so would suggest the covering of joints with a can-vass which is sufficiently described in the last of the above recipes. I think I can safely recommend side or all to the farmers of the state. Very Irdly,

SLEEPING CAR CASE.

A TEMPOBARY INJUNCTION WAS GRANTED YESTERDAY

In the Grenit Court—The Atlanta and Selma Prospects Brighter than Ever—Bailroad News Over the States

News Over the State.

By the last legislature a law was passed putting a special tax on all sleeping cars in use in the state, except such as were taxed ad valorem under the general law.

This meant, pactically, a tax on Pullman sleepers, because sleepers owned by the home road were taxed under the general tax act.

Will that law stand?

This is the question. The story of the litigation so far, is familiar to Constitution readers. The tax for 1889 was not paid by the company; Comptroller General Wright issued a warrant, commanding the sheriff of Fulton county, to selfer enough property of the company to pay the tax, amounting to $3,160.54. One sleeping car was seized accordingly.

Yesterday the case was reached in circuit court upon a bill asking, on behalf of the Pullman company, a femporary injunction against the company.

man company, a temporary injunction against the comptroller and the sheriff. Attorney-General Anderson represents the state, and Mr. John S. Runnells, of Chicago, general counsel of the Pullman company; Mr. William Burry, assistant general counsel, also of Chicago, and Mr. Ernest C. Kontz, local counsel, appeared for the sleeping car com-or Chicago, and Mr. Ernest C. Kontz, local counsel, appeared for the sleeping car company.

Judge Newman issued the following order: "In the circuit coart of the United States for the northern district of Georgia.

Pullman's Palace Car Company
Wm. A. Wright, Comptroller, et al.

Now come the parties into court, and the complainant presents its bill and moves for a temporary injunction, and the court having heard the parties and having considered the matter doth order and adjudge that a temporary injunction issue herein as prayed for in the bill of complaint, and that said injunction stand until the further order of the court herein, upon complainants giving an injunction bond in the sum of tenthousand dollars. Wm. T. Newman, U. S. Jadge."

January 22d, 1890.

That disposes of the case until March.

The special tax imposed is figured on this basis. The comptroller general ascertains the total value of the Pullman cars used in the United States and elsewhere; the total mileage over which the cars are run; and the total mileage in Georgia over which the cars are run; and total mileage in Georgia over which the cars total mileage in Georgia over which the cars are run.

The tax is assessed on a part value of the cars, bearing to the whole value the relation that the mileage in Georgia bears to the total mileage over which the cars are run, at the rate fixed in the general tax act.

In this particular case the value of the cars was estimated by the comptroller to be $17,000,000, and the tax on Georgia's pro-rata part of it was $3,160,34.

The bill in court points out, first, that their business is an interstate one. In the second

The bill in court points out, first, that their business is an interstate one. In the second place, they claim the tax is a special one, discriminating against non-resident property-owners—in violation, therefore, of a constitutional provision that such ad valorem taxes shall be uniform. Furthermore, fast freight cars and improved cars in which cattle are transported, though owned by foreign companies, are not taxed in Georgia, as are sleeping cars. This comes under the same objection to non-uniform ad valorem taxes.

Lastly, they claim that their cars are not liable to seizure, even if the tax is valid, because the cars are constantly being changed from one state and from one line to another, and have no taxable situs in Georgia. Of the 111 Pullman sleepers coming into and going out of Georgia only two make a journey between two terminal points both in the state. These are the two sleepers on the East Tennesse, Virginia and Georgia between Atlanta and Brunswick. The earnings of these sleepers is only per cent of that earned by the sleepers three making interstate trips into and out of Georgia.

In 1887 a law was passed levying a special tax on steeping cars owned by non-resident companies. The discrimination was clearly expressed in the law.

This tax was resisted and two temporary in-tax on steeping cars owned by non-resident companies. The discrimination was clearly expressed in the law.

This tax was resisted and two temporary injunctions were had against the comptroller and the sheriff—one by the Pullman Palace Car company, and one by the Pullman Southern Car company, These two companies are now consolidated, and both cases hold against the Pullman Palace Car company.

Those two cases have never been tried, and it was agreed by the counsel interested on both sides that all three cases should be tried at the same time, probably in March.

Card from Rev. Lansing Burrows.

AUGUSTA, Ga., January 21, 1830.—Dear sir: I have just noticed the paragraph in Friday's Coxstruction, (in the railway column) to the effect that I am quoted somewhat extensively as a yellow fever alarmist, to the detriment of southern travel. There never was a more gratuitous fiction in the world. I have made no statement, either by pen or tongue, but have been quietly minding my own business. Were it not that I have many vajued railway friends, who would think by the paragraph that I had lost my wits, I would say nothing, but for their benefit will you not say this much in your railway column? EXECUTIVE DEFARTMENT,
STATE OF GEORGIA.
Atlanta, January 10th, 1880.

THE ADVERTISEMENT HERETOFORE PUBlished, inviting bids for the Okefenokee swamp, and adjoining lands in this state, belonging to the state, under authority of an act of the legislature approved October 29th, 1889, which has been already published for sixty days, having been decided to be defective and insufficient, I have determined in the interest of the state, and in order to carry out the true intent of the legislature, to re-advertise said property according to the provisions of said act.

All bids must be transmitted under seal, to the executive of Georgia, who will publicly open the same

No bid will be received unless it is for a higher sum than 12½ cents per acre, and is accompanied by a deposit of 85,090.

The time for receiving bids will expire at ten (10) o'clock a. m., on Tnesday, the eighteenth (18) day of March, 1899, and the bids will be publicly opened at my office immediately after the time expires for receiving them.

The property will be awarded as provided in said act, and according to the provisions and conditions of said act, copies of which will be furnished upon application to this office:

By the Governor:

J. B. GORDON, Governor of Georgia.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 23, 1890.

A Word to Our Young Men.

In an interesting talk with a CONSTITU TION man the other day, President Kincaid, of the Griffin mills, said: "What the south needs above all things is men

I have a situation at a handsome salary for any young man of sense who will go through the tech-nological school and graduate, and then spend three years at hard work in a cotton mill. We eed such men for superintendents.'

Every word uttered by President Kincaid weighs a ton. We need skilled labor. We need young men of education, who will put their brains into their work.

It was all very well under the old conditions for the sons of wealthy men to enter the learned professions. In those days a rich man could afford to practice law or medicine simply as a sort of by-play, but times have changed, and the future of the south must be worked out by men who know how to develop our material resources.

We can get along without swelling the ranks of the politicians, lawyers and doctors. What we need, more than anything else, is skilled labor.

Once, it must be admitted, there was a prejudice against labor. That has out. The leading citizens of every free commonwealth are the producers-the men who turn swamps and forests into smiling farms, the builders of towns, cities, factories and railways, the developers of mines and other natural resources. These are the men who win fame and fortune, and lead the people, and make themselves a power in the land, and in the councils of the nation.

It is a thousand times better to go through the technological school, and march at the head of our industrial procession, than to starve in a shabby genteel way in a professional office. Our brainy princes of industry are the first men of the country. They are stamping their impress upon our literature, our laws and our society. So far from rank-ing second to the learned professions, they dominate them. They control our newspapers and magazines, and pay our lawyers, ctors and preachers. They go to congress and negotiate our commercial treaties with the nations of the world. The student of the closet and the writers of books go to them for ideas. The leaders of the social world look to them for all that makes modern life enjoyable.

President Kincaid's words are worth their weight in gold. We heartily commend them to every young man who is starting out in life, and hesitating before he takes the first step. There is more solid comfort and prosperity in material progress than in anything The skilled and educated worker who adds to the sum of our general wealth will stand higher in every way than the young man who starts out in broadcloth only to die a pauper, and leave his sons to begin life in their shirt sleeves.

Moral Suasion.

The Des Moines Register has been a strong advocate of prohibition, but after seeing its disgraceful failure during its five years trial in Iowa, it is beginning to think that moral suasion is better than a mere matute. Speaking of the work of Francis Murphy at Waverly, the Register says:

Mr. Murphy has accomplished in ten days for this place what five years of prohibition had failed He has virtually closed the saloons for want of patronage. If one-half the effort had been put forth in Iowa on the line of gospel tem-perance during the past few years that has been wasted in trying to reform men by law, there would not be an open saloon in the state today. Gospel temperance is the only thing that effectu-ally closes the saloon. Laws may close the front doors in the rural towns, but drinking and drunkenness continue to increase where people depend on the law to reform men of the rinking habit. What is needed in Iowa is more urphys and less law, and more earnest work on the line of gospel temperance.

The practical temperance reformers of the country will soon be on this line. As the Iowa paper said, what is needed is "more Murphys and less law."

Negroes as Democrats.

; Editor Medill's Chicago Tribune appears to be somewhat angry because a colored ed itor, Thomas T. Fortune, of New York, has arrived at the conclusion that the easiest solution of the negro problem is for the colpred voters to vote the democratic ticket.

We do not know why Editor Medill should object to the application of this remedy, unless it is because it is a political one. If this is the reason, Editor Medill should bear the fact in mind that he and his party have persisted in making the whole negro problem a political one, while the southern whites have never regarded it as such. That the northern and republican view has been detrimental to the best interests of the negroes as well as the best interests of the south and of the

Will Editor Medill point to a single instance where northern republicans have not created undue irritation and revived old prejudices by interfering in southern matters? What is the good of it all? What has been or can be accomplished by this outside pressue which northern people are so anxious to bring to bear on the negro question? If, as Editor Medill admits, all constitutional remedies have been exhausted by congress, why begin a new and a hopeless crusade, such as Bill Chandler proposes, which can only have the effect of firing race prejudices at the south? Why not let the negroes and the whites settle the questions between them in their own way, aided by time, and by that sense of justice and fair play that resides in the breast of every honest man?

As to the proposition of the colored editor that the negroes vote the democratic ticket, we are of the opinion that it would be an effective remedy, but it is probably impracticable. It would be a good political education for the negroes, and would be in the nature of a short cut to all the rights of Another remedy would be for the negroe to divide. In other words, as soon as the solid and threatening black vote is disposed of in a reasonable way, there will be no longer a negro problem. If Editor Medill loves his country he ought to congratulate the colored editor for his suggestion.

The Windom Bill. The silver bill that Secretary Windom has presented to congress has already been outined in his annual report, and the main features of it have been printed and commented on in these columns. It embodies as our readers will remember, the proposed solution of the silver question in regard to which the esteemed administration had not made up its able mind when it sent to congress its celebrated annual message.

It is not probable that Mr. Windom's silver bill has been formulated or presented to congress with any serious hope of its becoming a law. We have no doubt it is of fered in the hope of preventing or staving of rational and necessary legislation on the subject. It is expected to create a diversion which will, in the end, prove beneficial to the one-metal theory of the gold-bugs of the east. To this extent it may be successful, but there is not the slightest chance that the bill will become a law. The fatal objection to it is that it is not a measure in the interest of bimetalism, but is intended to repeal the present law, which has proven to be the mainstay of the financial and commercial interests of the country. It is a sort of Trojan horse (as the Ohio country editor would remark) and in its wooden and Windom bowels lurk the enemies of silver.

The country is not yet ready to see the power of regulating the price of silver placed in the hands of a secretary of the treasury, no matter how much judgment and discre tion he might possess. Should this bill become a law, the secretary would have the power to suspend the purchases of silver by the government at any time that he is satis fied that, through combinations or specula tive manipulations of the market, the price of silver is arbitrary, nominal or fictitious; and yet there would be, under other pro visions of the bill, no other market than that at the treasury, and no other price but that which the secretary might choose to pay. In other words, the government would have absolute control of the silver market, and would be able to fix the price of the metal absolutely.

Thus, with this bill a law, Mr. Windom or any other secretary of the treasury, would have the power to place silver bullion on a par with gold, or he would be able to force the price below its present ruling. This is too great a responsibility to place in the hands of a secretary—especially a republican secretary, who might enter into the silver speculation himself through the medium of silent partner. Rationally treated, the silver problem is a very simple one. Silver should be remoneized, and the way to remonetize it is to coli it free at the mints. Until this is done, the Bland law is good enough to be let alone.

Banking Legislation.

It is too early to forecast the amendments that will be added to our national banking system during the present session of congress.

Some of the amendments proposed are ery good, so far as they go. The principle of a government guarantee for circulating notes, and the reduction of the tax on circulation will be generally approved.

But our national banks fall very far short of the needs of the people. They are organized and run in the interests of the mercantile or trading portion of the community. Their loans are made on such securities as business men naturally handle stocks and bonds, but not on real estate, the only property the farmers have, and, in point of fact, the only property that is worth anything when we go to the bottom of the subject. If the national banking system could be amended so as to enable the banks to loan money on land, the farmers would not be forced to go to the land mortgage companies. They should be dealt with upon the same terms, so far as interest is concerned, that are granted to the merchants. With such help our farmers would be more independent. They would save the exorbitant interest they are now paying, and the heavy prices charged them when they buy on

As matters now stand, the chief producers of the country are shut out from the benefits of our banking system, and the tax of ten per cent on the circulation of state banks has driven those local institutions out of ex-

While our congressmen are considering the matter of banking legislation they should study the strained relations existing between the farmers and the national banks, and if possible remedy the evil.

Dictator Reed and the Republicans. The republicans in congress are desperatethey are so desperate, in fact, that they have conferred the powers of a czar or Speaker Reed. These powers are so broad and deep that Mr. Reed is something more than a speaker: he is a dictator, and he has only to wave his imperial hand to bring the house to its knees, so to speak. There is but one drawback to Dictator Reed's dignity. Powerful as he is, he is compelled by nature or habit to issue his proclamations through his nose. It thus happens that his voice is not as melodious as it might be-but it is sufficient for the purpose to which Dictator Reed puts it. It does the work effectually.

The speaker-dictator has put his proboscis to good use so far as the republicans are concerned. Through it he has informed the democrats that no more votes will be taken by means of tellers. In other words, the republicans of congress have decided that the decision of a speaker is hereafter to be final, so far as the announcement of the result of a vote is concerned. It puts an end to filibustering in the house, and gives the republicans absolute control in every detail of legislation. Parliamentary tactics may still be employed to a certain extent, but the speaker has control of the whole business, and will be able to dispose of every question as he sees fit.

Naturally, the democrats are somewhat disgusted at this arbitrary assumption of power by the speaker; but they have this consolation, as they have had it before, that the republicans are establishing a precedent that will be as valuable to the democrats, when they get a majority of the house, as it now is to the republicans. Dictator Reed and the republican majority are merely following the programme formu-lated by Matt Quay, and this is a fact to be remembered. The situation is not a happy one for the democrats, just at presentis it as happy for the republicans as they now seem to believe.

Time goes by turns, as the old poet said and the democrats can well afford to be patient. Their time will come, and it will then be in order to give the republicans a dose of their own medicine. It is strong and bitter, and, coming from their own pharmacy, will do them a world of good.

An Unique Plan. The plan upon which the Atwater Carriage and Wagon company is to be organized is, as will be seen by reference to an article in another column, a novel one. It is the application to manufacturing companies of th methods frequently adopted by real estate and banking companies, the payment for the stock by installments.

In this case, the shares of one hundred dollars each, are to be paid for at the rate of four dollars per share per month. Apart from the novelty of the plan, this movemen is one of interest to Atlanta in that it brings new manufacturing concern to the city.

Mr. H. L. Atwater, who is at the head of the new concern, has been long a resident of Atlanta, and has, as he deserves, the confidence of the business world. Under such auspices, it is safe to predict success for the Atwater Carriage and Wagon company.

Like a Dime Novel. The Mobile Register publishes a sensaional item of Alabama news. It is said that some two years ago Mrs. Fanny Coleman, a northern lady, went to Mr. John Moulton's house in Baldwin county for the benefit of her health. Mr. Moulton found that his boarder had a large sum of money with her and some valuable ecurities. With the assistance of a female neighbor he locked Mrs. Coleman up, and kept her a prisoner until a few days ago when the authorities interfered.

This is a bare outline of the supposed facts in the case. If there is any truth in the story it beats the average dime novel.

THE cold wave hasn't reached the pinchin point yet. In other words, Tommy Edison the electric mule, can still keep his feet war on the belgian block.

MR. BILLP CHANDLER should preface hi emarks on Florida with an affidavit-a good strong one.

THE new rules of the house are truly repubican. They will be good enough for the democrats after the next elections.

THE defaulting republican state treasurer of Cansas is trying to go around the world in thirty days. A SAVANNAH paper is a very good thing in its way—admirable, in fact. Nevertheless, we shall watch Brer Estill's attempt to run a Savannah paper in Macon with a good deal of nterest. THE Hon. G. Frisbie Hoar, who flapped his coat-tails at Mt. Blanc, wants the whites to go to Africa. In that genial clime Uncle Hoar could wear his claw-hammer coat without any EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Dr. Snow, an au ority on anaesthesia, many years ago expresse the belief that it was impossible to use as pungent a vapor as chloroform on a sleeper awakening him. Stephen Rogers, of New York, the Medical Record says, places the possibility of the use of chloroform for burglarious purposes, almost beyond the pale of argument. Another shown that it is easy to awaken the soundest sleeper, even when the napkin, containing the soporific drug, is held at considerable distance from his face. Anaesthesia, it urges, is rarely produced without a struggle and noise, and often it is accompanied with vomiting. The Record, in commenting on the sensation of Newark, asks:

"'How could the deed be accor plained by the fact that one of the victims was found dead in bed and the other lying on the found dead in bed and the other lying on the floor? Which one was chloroformed first? Is it possible to conceive that lying side by side, one of the other would not be awakened to give the alarm, even if the drug was administered to bot at once? Or, was one promptly strangled, and the other simply overcome in her struggles subsequently? With one murder staring them in the face what would have been the incentive of the criminals to commit another against such desperate chances as a determined and desperate reistance by the remaining victim?"

THE ALLIANCE PAPER. THE ABBOTT SEASON

WAS BRILLIANTLY OPENED LAST NIGHT WITH "ERNANI."

ta Turns Out in Force to Welcome the Famous Prima Donna and Her Company
-Theatrical Notes.

A welcome to Emma Abboti

A glorious welcome it was, too. Atlanta was our in force. All society was at the opera house, al the ladies wore their best clothes, and it is safe to say a more brilliant andience has never assembled

Abbott seasons are always great society events and this one will prove no exception. The famou little prima donna comes this year with sever-new operas, with most magnificent costume with all the old favorites of her com pany and several new ones, and with stronger chorus and stronger orchestra than ever before. With all these, is it any wonder that the Abbott

THE OPENING LAST NIGHT.

Verdi's tragic opera, "Ernani," was the bill last Verdi's tragic opera, "Ernani," was the bill last night. It had never before been sung in Atlants, but it could not have been produced under more favorable auspices. In the cast there were, besides Miss Abbott, Montegriffo, Pruette, Broderic, Keady, Mirella and Karl; then the chorus and orchestra, well drilled and skillfully handled by Carl Martens, and the stage settings and costuming as they should be for such a production—all made up a whole as near perfection as it is possible for the lover of opera to expect. opera to expect.

The story of the opera is tragic in the extreme making the libretto a trifie heavy, perhaps; bu the music is beautiful, and, as rendered by th excellent voices of the Abbott company, makes Ernani" a most pleasing perform

Of Emma Abbott-what can be said that has no been said, and said again? And yet all this praise must be empha-sized each year, for each year she comes to us better than the year before, improving where improvement was not thought possi-ble. Aside from her great abilities as singer and as actress, what I most admire in Emma Abbott is that enthusiasm which she seems to throw into ork, and her never-ceasing efforts to go up, up, up in her art. Always busy, always hard at her studies, she is one artiste

And so it is that she comes this year better than ever before. She is singing better than she ever ever before. She is singing better than she ever sang; she has never done better work than that in "Ernani" last night. That her audience appreciated it all was apparent from her first ap-pearance. At the end of the second act the calls for her return were so strong that she came back and sang "S'wanee Ribber" as only she can sing it. A firm hold upon Atlanta she has a but today it is firmer than ever before.

THE SUPPORTING COMPANY. Of the support, Pruette scored the greatest success. His role in "Ernani" gives him a great deal to do, and he does it all magnificently. There was too nuch of it to particularize: it is sufficient to say that here is a young man who is taking advantage of his opportunities and who grows day by day. His success last night was most marked and he was a decided favorite with everybody.

Montegriffo, an old favorite, was hardly up to his usual standard of excellence. A slight tendency to flat marred one or two of the passages which fell to his lot, but in his duet with Miss Ab bott and in the trio at the end of the last act there was none of this. Then his beautiful tenor came out clear and sweet.

Mr. Broderick, Miss Mirella, and the other principals, deserve mention for their uniform ex-ce in the different roles. Mr. Broderic heard to especially advantage in the trio with Miss Abbott and Mr. Pruette, and in the climax with Miss Abbott and Mr. Montegriffo I have spoken of the excellence of the chorus and of the orchestra—two points which cannot be too strongly emphasized. Of the production, as a whole, I can say that it fulfilled the highes

Emma Abbott and her splendid opera company will tonight present Auber's brilliant opera comique, "Crown Diamonds," and the cast, which is a large one, will include every member of the Abbott organization. This work abounds in bright situations, interesting dialogue, brilliant concerted numbers and some fine solos. "Crown Diamonds" has not been sung in English in many years, and its revival by Emma Abbott has bee on a scale of unusual magnificence, and it has been one of the great hits of the seas every opportunity for elegant dressing, and Miss Abbott will display some bewildering costumes tonight as the queen, and in the last act with the dainty pale blue court dress she will wear the famous court mantle, designated as the "Queen of Portugal Mantle," it being a copy, only in a more elaborate pattern, of one made by Worth for the queen of Portugal. I purchased the home of Judge McLin from his widow (now deceased) near Orlando Grove and 120 acres of land, and conversed with his widow on this subject.

Whether he was guilty or not, I do not pretend to say, but I do know that it cost him his life in this way: Mrs. McLin told me he got a judgship appointment in Arizona or some one of the western territories. She went out there with him. They did not like it. He kicked and was recalled to Washington.

While he was waiting there for a place to be made for him, commensurate with the services rendered, she returned to Florida. He caughta severe cold, returned to Florida and soon died.

Mrs. McLin took republican papers and tried to be a republican, but her denunciations of the yankee were the most bitter of any person I have met since my residence in the south, some seven years.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Newspaper Man Has to Dodge to Save His Life.

Augusta, Ga., January 22.—[Special.] — Mr. William C. Casey, a reporter on the Chronicië, had a narrow escape from serious injury this after-noon. He was on horseback and had just ridden up to the curbstone in front of the French store up to the curbstone in front of the French store, on Broad street, to speak to City Editor Hook. Major Reilly, commandant at the arsenal, was driving down Broad street in a two-horse surrey, Mrs. Reilly occupying the back seat. Just as the team was about seventy-five yards from the two newspaper men the breast strap on one of the horses strap on one of the horses broke, letting the tongue swing down between them. The horses were very spirited, and immediately started off. Major Riley began pulling them in towards the sidewalk, and in a moment they were only a few feet from the newspaper men, and rapidly becoming more unmanageable. Mr. Hook ran into the door of the French store and Mr. Casey sprang from his horse and jumped behind a large electric light pole. The same instant the team struck the pole on the other side, the horses going on either side of it. Both horses tripped over the ledge of the elevated sidewalk and fell. The front wheels of the surry ran against the edge of the sidewalk and stopped. One of the horses struck his head, and fell flat; the other went down on allfours. The entangling harness pulled them together around the post, and Mr. Casey and the two horses were in a general heap on the sidewalk. He was stepped on, fallen on, and kicked, and when he rolled out from among the horses looked like he had been ran through a cotton gin.

From the evidence, Wildberger evidently made things lively about his house. His favorite pastime was spitting in his wife's face when his meals did not exactly suit his epicurean ideas. He ran her off from home one night in June, 1888, because his supper was not as he thought it should have been. He was cruel in other ways, but the law has now stepped in and he will have the emportunity no more.

A GAD ABOUT.

John William Henry Dean asked the court to relieve him of the marital vow made to Sarah E. Speer. The lady filed a cross bill, and a separation was granted.

Dean said he and his wife lived together about two years, but she being four years his senior, and of superior health and strength, and of a domineering disposition, robbed his life of charm and attractiveness. She was quarrelsome, and, instead of performing her household duties, she was continually gadding about among the neighbors. For one whole week she refused to prepare his meals, and at one time charged on him with a musket bayonet and threatened to take his life. Mrs. Dean charged her spouse with quarrelsomeness. She said he was afflicted with disease, bean charged her spouse with quarrelsomeness. She said he was afflicted with disease, and frequently became drunk.

A first verdict was granted Mrs. Hattie

A first verdict was granted Mrs. Hattie Herbert, totally severing the ties that bound her to R. J. Herbert. She claimed that he was untrue to her, and refused to provide for her necessities. He was cruel and cursed and threatened her with bodily harm.

On a second verdict Mrs. Fanny Toy was totally divorced from J. T. Toy and restored her maiden name, Fanny Norwood. Both are permitted to marry again. The grounds of the libel were habitual drunkenness and desertion. The defendant filed a cross-bill alleging adultery on the part of his wife, who is now a resident of New York.

MARRIED SIX MONTHS.

MARRIED SIX MONTHS.

Mamie Wingate and Ollie Wingate lived together as man and wife about six months, and a second verdit of separation rendered yesterday. Soon after their marriage she says her husband began treating her cruelly, finnally refusing to allow her to get into her own bed and forcing her to leave her home.

A second verdict, allowing both parties to remarry was found in the case of Z. T. Reed agaisst Mary E. Reed. The plaintiff the ground of his plea on cruel treatment, and because when a child was born to them the wife cooly informed him that he was MARRIED SIX MONTHS.

them the wife cooly informed him that he was not its father. She cursed, abused and struck him, which finally became so intolerable that he folded his tent and got without the bounds of the state. Mrs. Reed denied the charges of unfaithfulness and cruelty, and that on the contrary the plaintiff was cruel toward her.

James F. Farrell, after living with Mary D. Farrell fifteen years, was granted a second verdict for total divorce. In 1884 Mrs. Farrell abandoned her husband, and when the proceedings were begun she was a resident of Boston.

The first step to total severance of the conanubial knot was granted Mrs. Emma McCowen against E. P. McCowen. She said that McCowen treated her cruelly, and that upon one occasion he locked her up in a room and kept her there until it pleased him to let her out. At another time he pulled her out of bed while she was sick and in a delicate condition.

For cruelty and adultery, Mrs. Carrie Garner was granted a first verdict of divorce from Jessie Garner.

SEVEN CHILDREN.

Mrs. Fanny E. Crouch, after a married life of over a quarter of a century, was granted a first verdict on the ground of desertion. Seven children were born to her and her husband, two of whom are married. The desertion occurred seven years before the filling of the petion.

A final verdict was given J. A. Mercy separating her from M. O. Mercy, on the ground of

AN UNSOPHISTICATED YOUTH.

H. D. Ivey asked the court to separate him legally from his wife, Allie T. Ivey, formerly Allie Taylor. They were married only about five months when a child was born. Ivey said that at the time of his marriage he was young, ignorant and unsophisticated, and had little knowledge of women. He immediately separated from her, but finally forgave her, and lived with her again for a short time, when he discovered her infidelity, and left her for good. The first verdict was granted. Mary Hill was granted a first verdict of divorce from Peter Hill, because of failure by him to provide for her and drunkenness.

W. A. Wright asked for total divorce from his wife, Vick T. Wright, formerly Vick J. Gunby. Soon after their marriage, he said, she began to develop a temper that would have moved the philosophical Socrates himself to desperation, and which developed in such a marked degree that he soon began to wish that he had never been born. Mrs. Wright filed a cross bill averring that the plaintiff was not entitled to a divorce, but that the was, and the jury so found.

ONLY A DOLLAR A WEEK.

Sophia Fetchter was given a verdict separating her from Egidin Fetchter. The two lived together six years, when the husband cassed to contribute anything to her support, save for a few weeks during 1887, when he sent her one dollar per week, and refused to even pay her back $100 which he borrowed of her.

First verdict was allowed Amanda J. Payne, on the ground of cruelty and desertion.

SEVEN MONTHS MARRIED.

Josephine Newman and G. W. Newman lived in married life seven months. They then separated, and yesterday a first verdict of divorce was granted.

J. R. Harris and F. Ella Stell were married in December, 1884, and lived together six months, when she willfully deserted him, leaving the state and county. A first verdict was granted the plaintiff yesterday.

THE NEW PLAN

WHICH IS USED TO BUILD UP A NEW

The Atwater Carriage and Wagon Company to Be Started at Once—Mr. Atwater's Change Goes Into Effect Today. Here's a new idea in building up manufacturing enterprises. The originator of the idea, or rather of the application of the idea, is a gentleman who has been well known in Atlanta business circles for a good many years.

Today Mr. H. L. Atwater severs his connection with the Standard Wagon company.

Mr. Atwater makes this change that he may devote his time to the new comyany, at the head of which he will be. This company was granted a charter by superior court. As its name indicates, its business will be that with which Mr. Atwater has been connected for so many years—the manufacture and sale of buggies, wagons and vehicles of all descriptions

THE PLAN OF THE COMPANY. The company is organized upon an unique

The capital stock will be $50,000, divided into shares of $100 each. This stock is payable in twenty-five months, or at the rate of four dollars per share per month. This is in brief, the building and loan, or land company principle applied to manufacturing.

The outlook for the new company is most flat-tering. More than $18,000 of the stock has already been subscribed, with such men as James R. Wylie, J.H. Porter, R.M. Farrar, A.J.Orme, J. R. Gray, W. C. Hale, J. M. Brosius, A. M. Shomo, J. F. Beck and others among the subscribers.
"I have made no canvass whatever," said

Mr. Atwater yesterday, "but now I propose to push matters. I guess it is not egotistical in me to say that I know this field as well as anybody does; I have been at the business long enough. I feel positive that Atlanta fur-nishes just the field for the kind of a business we contemplate."

THE PURPOSES OF THE COMPANY. "And just what is that?"

"We will begin at once the manufacture of "We will begin at once the manufacture of a medium grade of buggy, which I know we have the market for. Then, besides that, we will be the agents for a big portion of the south of the famous Milburn Wagon company; of the McLear & Kendall company, one of the most prominent manufacturers of fine goods in the United States, and of other houses equally prominent in their lines. In the buggies we manufacture it shall be our plan to make everything the best, and we believe with all things equal, Atlanta can believe with all things equal, Atlanta can control this territory. The firms we will represent are the most prominent in their lines in the country, and have already well established business."

established business."

THE ATWATER COMPANY.

Of Mr. H. L. Atwater, it is, perhaps, unnecessary to say anything. For twelve years he has been doing business in Atlanta, for many years as manager of the Milburn Wagon company and the Standard Wagon company. No man is better or more favorably known in business circles. He is a practical carriagemaker, learning the business were then thirty years. learning the business more than thirty years ago, and having been connected with it ever since.

Mr. Atwater will call upon the business men of Atlanta, and hopes to get up the balance of the subscription to the stock at once.

CHAIRMAN BRAND FOR PRIMARIES. A Card from the Chairman of the Gwinnett County Committee.

The discussion for and against primaries in the ninth congressional district is becoming inter-

It is just now the livest issue in that neighborhood and has got to be settled soon.
Chairman C. H. Brand, the chairman of the Gwinnett county congressional executive committee, has the following card in this week's Gwinnett Herald:

Gwinnett county congressional executive committee, has the following card in this week's Gwinnett Herald:

Mr. Editor: I have been asked time and again, and have received letters from over the congressional district, requesting my views upon the question of "primaries" for the next race in the ninth. These inquiries of me are due to but a single fact, it is candid to state, viz.: I being chairman of the executive committee in this county, and being also a member of the executive committee in this county, and being also a member of the executive committee in the district. For once and all, those inquiring and who have a right to know (and the people have a right to know the position of the committee) may know and understand that I am thoroughly and emphatically in favor of primaries, and have been for many years. To be held something like in this wise:

Let the election, or a primary, be held in each militia district of each county in the congressional district, and be managed—controlled and guarded by democrats—where every democrat, whether he calls himself or is calied an independent or organized, so he is a democrat, may and shall have the right to cast his ballot for the candidate of his choice. Let all vote—black and white—who are legally qualified, and who are not republicans. Let the election be conducted or held by the justice of the peace, and the committeeman of that district, and a clerk. Let the polls be open and the election be held as other elections are held, with the same sacredness as to one's ballot, and the same fairness and publicity. Let the returns be made by noon the next day to the executive committee, who shall assemble at the courthouse, and consolidate the vote, and declare who has received the highest number of votes, and that that candidate shall be declared the nominee of the county.

The candidate who may thus receive the nomination will, I believe, have opposition from no quarter. No sensible man would dare challenge the voice of the people by running counter to their expressed wi

THE COTTON MARKET.

A Fall Yesterday for the First Time in Quite a While.

Quite a While.

January cotton opened yesterday at 10.92.
It closed at 10.81-82.
This is the first fall of any consequence since the steady rise began about the last of December.
This week opened up as if the rise was strengthening. Monday it opened at 10.64-65. Tuesday it opened at 10.79-80. Wednesday at 10.92—and then the fall to 10.81.

December it opened at 10.05, and the rise to 10.92 was a steady one.
What next?

ATLANTA'S SICK.

Mr. John M. Moore, the well-known Peachtree street shoe dealer, is ill at his home on Capitol avenue. His condition was reported considerably improved yesterday.
Mr. Gaines Chisholm is reported quite sick at his home, corner Pryor and Garnett streets.
Mr. G. W. Hall, formerly connected with the Markham house, is ill at his home on Crew street. Quite a number of cases of "La Grippe" are reported in various portions of the city, but so far none of a fatal nature have appeared here.

THE THREE WEDDINGS

WHICH WERE CELEBRATED IN AT-LANTA YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Fitien's Luncheon in Honor of Mrs. Colley—Other Society Events—News and Notes About Atlanta's Society People. At 8 o'clock last night, Dr. George Leonard Chaney officiating, Mr. Frank Edward Clarkson, of Boston, and Miss Fannie Atkinson were mar-ried at the residence of the bride's mother, 146 Jackson street.

The wedding was a quiet one, only the intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

The house was tastefully decorated with ivy and holly, the walls of the parlor in which the ceremoholly, the walls of the parlor in which the ceremony took place being literally covered with these exquisite leaves, as were the reception and supper rooms. The mantles were also banked with potted plants. The table was elaborately furnished with hothouse flowers, the gift of Miss Atkinson's numerous friends. In front of the house was a large are electric light, placed there by courtesy of Superintendent Wade, of the Atlanta Electric Light countary. Also through the courtesy of Mr. company. Also, through the courtesy of Mr. Charles T. Wurm, his orchestra discoursed music through the evening.

The bride was attired in white brocaded silk en train, which as befits a bride, was daintiness itself. The bodice was made in the old English style with rounded neck, over which fell rare lace, and the same garniture finished the elbow. The bride wore the same handkerchief and bracelet worn by her mother on her wedding day.

At 8 o'clock the bride entered the parlor with her brother, Mr. Uric Atkinson, preceded by her little sister and sole attendant, Miss Minnie Atlittle sister and sole attendant, Miss Minnie Atkinson, where the groom was in waiting. She carried a boquet of violets. The groom was attended by Mr. Frederic Jewett Cooke. The ceremony was brief, simple and beautiful, the Episcopal service being used. Those present at the ceremony were: Mrs. A. Dessau, Mrs. E. A. Atkinson, Mrs. Cordelia D. Atkinson,
Masters George, Charlie and H. W. Atkinson,

Mrs. Clayton, Mrs. Hugh Inman and Mrs. Anderson were selected from the school, and Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. McBurney, and Mrs. Beath, from the home, were selected to examine into the price of suitable lots, and make a report at the next meeting.

one of the most elegant luncheons of the season was that given yesterday at 2 o'clock by Mrs. John Fitten to Mrs. Frank Colley, of Washington, Ga. There were three tables in pink, green and white and yellow, the last being the largest, and decorated with jonquils. The fibers in silver candelabras were yellow. At each lady's plate was a corsage bouquet of daffodils tied with yellow ribbons. The pink table had for its center piece a bowl of La France roses. The same rare flowers, tied with pink ribbons, were the favors, and pink tapers with pink rose shades completed the decorations. The white and green table had in its center a bowl of calla lilles, arbutelons, white hyacinths and ferns. The pale green wax tapers had white rose shades, and the favors were white hyacinths and ferns tied with green ribbons. The effect of these tables, in their different colors, was rarely enchanting.

A WILD CAREER.

P. LEO SUTHERLAND IS AGAIN

On a Charge of Forgery—The Strange Story of a Young Man Who Started Life Under the Happiest Auspices.
P. Leo Sutherland is wanted in Clarksville,

Tenn., for forgery.

The chief of police of that city offers twenty-five dollars reward for his apprehension.

Sutherland is the notorious hero of a wild career of wickedness. He is about twentyfive or thirty years of age, and the son of a most respectable and once well-to-do farmer of Jefferson county. Some years ago the family removed to Baldwin county, and Young Sutherland started life under the fairest auspices.

But he went wrong. About two and a half years ago he committed forgeries on J. R. Mercer & Co., of Dawson; Dan Lowe's bank, of Fort Valley, and Head's bank, of Forsyth. He skipped out to Eagle Pass, Teras, where he was located by Detective Shackleford and brought back to Dawson. The detective received the reward of $200 offered by Mercer & Co., for his arrest, and turned the prisoner over to the authorities of Ternell county. He was placed in juil on the charge of forgery. was placed in jail on the charge of forgery. HE PROFESTED RELIGION sympathies of the people of Dawson. Through agreed to a settlement of the forgery, and after being reimbursed for their losses, agreed not to prosecute the young criminal.

The cases in Forsyth and Fort Valley were not pushed, as the amount of the forgeries were small, and young Sutherland was allowed to go free, after his family had paid out a large sum to save him.

But he soon got into trouble again. Ingram & Coles, of Turin, Ga., were robbed of a lot of goods some few months later, and the stolen goods were shipped to Sutherland, or, at least, in his name, to Macon by the thieves. Again Detective Shackleford was called into requisition, and soon located his man and arrested him a second time.

Sutherland was carried to Griffin and lodged in jail. His father went to work to save him, and finally effected a settlement of the case, and secured his son's release.

The last crime was committed in Clarksville, Tenn. The forgery was probably a small one, as the reward offered is so small. The description tallies exactly with the young man as he is known to the detectives, and Detective Shackleford recognized him as an old acquaintance the moment he received the letter from the chief of police yesterday.

The letter states that Sutherland represented himself as a tobacco drummer, and claimed that his home was in Milledgeville.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, January 22.—The stock market was active today at both ends, with a long percent of duliness and a fair approach to stagnation between, though such movements as were made in that time were in the direction of lower figures. About three-fourths of the business done during the day was transacted in the first half hour and the last forty-five minutes. A marked feature of the trading was that when the market was active, the trading was that when the market was active, prices advanced, while duliness brought a drooping tendency. The evidence of the day go to show that the buil party quickly acquired strength of numbers. There was talk on the street of more confidence of an advance all along the line. The covering movement of the past two days was still under way at the opening this morning, but the early demand was soon satisfied, and as buying for short account ceased the market became dull and stagmant. The bears did some hammering in a feeble way, but with only small fractional results, and they soon ceased aggressive operation. The temper of the room consmall fractional results, and they soon ceased aggressive operation. The temper of the room continued bullish even under the discouragement of extreme duliness and talk that money was assured of ease for at least two months, while the railroads were sure of large earnings in the meantime, was heard in all directions. Besides, Gould was out with another interview, in which he expressed the most decided optimistle views, while the bear leader was doing nothing and outsnoken hears were few and far optimistle views, while the bear leader was doing nothing and outspoken bears were few and far between. The cold snap was favorable to the coal stocks, and neither Reading, Lackawanna nor Jersey Central got below their opening figures, while many of other leading shares before the delivery hour were fractionally lower.

The afternoon rise was started by specialties with very heavy trading in Missouri Pacific, coalers, St. Paul, sugar refineries and Union Pacific, the last named being favorably affected by the report of the government directors, though Oregon Short Line was stronger on less business. Everything reached its highest pright to the close, which was active and strong.

Among the specialties, which were most promi-

Among the specialties, which were most promi-nent were Oregon Short Line, Colorado coal, Hocking Valley and Mobile and Ohio, all of which scored material advances for the day. Trusts were fairly active and sugar was strong, though expectation of a decision in its case rather militated against it. Buying was liberal in the last hour, however, and with the regular list it amounted to the best prices for nearly a week. Active stocks are almost invariably higher tonight, and Colorado coal is up 21/4, Oregon Short Line 25/8,

NEW YORK, January 22—[Special.]—Liverpool favored the bull clement with a cable assuming "steam engine" proportions this morning, as an advance of 425-64d occurred over there. This readvance of 4.65-64d occurred over there. This resulted in a stampede at the opening of our market, as quotations bulged up from 12@14 points and continued so until all lines of argument, as well as tactics, was exhausted by the rampant bulls, when the level-headed bears came in and hammared quotations, which resulted in a decline of 10 points, when a halt was called with a recovery of 3 points, the market closing steady. The Horald prints a significant article, which appears exceedingly plausible. It reads as follows: "The bears maintain that it is practically a onesided market, and dangerous because there is so little short interest to act as a brake on the market if the bulls should decide to liquidate." Today's observation shows that the sentiment as to much higher prices is on the wane. Conservative people fall to see why quotations should continue il points above last year, unless Europe intends to capture the entire crop. Spot here was firm, and advanced 1/2 with sales of 114 bales, while the southern markets showed additional strength, with Galveton, Mobile, Wilmington and Memphis 1/2 and Augusta 3-16c higher. The exports today exceeded the receipts, aggregating 20,68 bales. The interior receipts today were rather light, but they appeared free at the ports, being 17,875 bales, against 22,703 bales last year.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, January 22—Wheat—Only a moder-ate business was transacted, and the market dur-ing the early part of the session ruled quiet, At intervals there was a fair trade, but the market intervals there was a fair trade, but the market was generally slow. The feeling was a trifle stronger, and prices averaged a shade higher than yesterday, due in part to firmer cables, reported small stocks in the Russian ports and other influences, such as cold weather in the west and reports of too much rain in California. The market opened a shade firmer and sold to \%@\%c above yesterday's closing, eased off \%@\%c and then improved \%@\%c, ruling steady and firm, and closed \%c higher than yesterday.

26, ruling steady and firm, and closed %c higher than yesterday.

Corn—There was a moderate speculative business transacted early in the session, and the feeling prevailing was firmer, after which the market became quiet and easier. There appeared to be some buying orders from the outside, and in filling the same the local crowd became short, and on their covering prices were advanced. One hunder than the covering prices were advanced. their covering prices were advanced. One hundred and fifty-three cars came in, of which 16 cars graded contract, while 69 cars were billed through. Estimates for tomorrow are about the same, being placed at 150 cars. The domestic markets were placed at 150 cars. The domestic markets were relatively firm.

3. Oats were quiet but firm. Arrivals were quite small, and the effects of this were visible in a light sample trade. A rather firmer speculative feeling prevalled, and in some cases prices show some little improvement, but at the same time prices continue too narrow to attract attention. In consequence of, a few changes in values it was difficult to execute orders when the limits were at any distance from the prices lately prevaling. There were moderate sales for May delivery, and trading had the appearance of being largely on local account. There was some little business in the near futures at ½c advance, but the other futures were neglected.

in the near futures at ¼c advance, but the other futures were neglected.

Hog products -Considerable strength was manifested in the market for hog products, and speculative trading was moderately active. The depending markets, both domestic and foreign, exhibited considerable strength, and receipts of hogs were liberal, but selling at higher prices. Receipts of products were fair, and shipments quite liberal of all descriptions. Under these circumstances the market for products attracted more attention and higher prices were realized for most descriptions. The local shorts purchased rather freelymore particularly two quite prominent speculators, while offerings were not very large. There was a little realizing by parties who purchased a few days ago, but offerings from that source were only moderate. May deliveries met with most favor, though the near deliveries of some articles were a little inquired for.

City Paupers Put Away in the Cheapest of Cheap Coffins by Colored Undertakers at Eighty Cents a Head.

VIDE A BURYING GROUND.

"While so much is being done for the living or of Atlanta, somebody ought to remember be poor that die," said a gentleman yester-

"Do you know that the county poor are shoot without a burying ground? It is often the case that the relatives are unable to pay the burial expenses, and the body is taken the burial expenses, and the body is taken sway out in the country by some kindly disposed person whose heart is touched by the sederenustances.

"Fulton county is rich enough to provide a burying ground, where those who are too poor to pay the expenses of the funeral may secure decent interment for their dead. It is a subject that ought to be looked into. In the suburbs of Atlanta I have known many pitiful instances of this deep pathos of poverty. There are poor white people and a great many poverty stricken negroes who suffer in this Tay, and I believe if the matter were agisted some steps would be taken by the authorities to amend this state of affairs."

THE CITY PAUPERS.

"The city paupers," said another gentleman, "are sufferers in like manner. For nine or ten pears the city poor have been buried by colored.

*are sufferers in like manner. For line of tenpears the city poor have been buried by colored undertakers at eighty cents a head.

"Of course, the coffins are the very cheapest of the cheap, and I am told that the bodies are just dumped into these unlined coffins, irundled off on drays and buried, without box ss boards. believe that something ought to be done in the matter. Those to do die homeless and friendless in the hospitals and charitable institutions of the city should be decently buried, and there night to be a sufficient sum appropriated to ave it done."

A PROBABLE EFFORT IN THIS DIRECTION. It was learned that a philanthropic gentleman of the city will probably make an effort to bring about some improvement in the burial of the poor. He will bring the matter before the proper authorities, and when the true condition of affairs is laid before them, true condition of affairs is laid before them, he hopes to be able to inaugurate some principle of reform.

At present the burial ground of the city poor is in Westview, and there is plenty of room in the space set apart for the city. But many a body is carried far out in the country by families too poor to afford the expense of a city burial, and too proud to have their loved ones buried at public expense.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. R. S. Drake, M. D., Bellot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

WE NOT ONLY GIVE THE PUR-chaser the Best Roofing Plates, but

V chaser the Best Roofing Plates, but we protect him:
First—By guaranteeing every box.
Second—By stamping each sheet with the brand and thickness.
Third—By excluding wasters or defective sheets.
Fourth—By branding the net weight of the 112 sheets on each box, to satisfy the customer (in this age of light-weight plates) that he is obtaining Full Weight.

For the benefit of those wanting the very best loofing plates, we assert, and are prepared to prove, that there are no other brands of roofing tin offered in the market today, by any firm, under the four different guarantees given above by this house, and we challenge a public contradiction of this statement.

Scene—First Dinner to the Family Physican by Young Married Couple.

Family Physician—Do you know, there seems to be a natural flavor about this food that is most appetizing? What method do you use in cooking it?

Lady Of The House—Well, Doctor, when I was at home, my mother would have no other than a Charter Oak Stove. From my earliest recollection I remembered how she would praise it, and her cooking was superb. So when we were married I insisted on having the same kind of stove. Of course the improvements made on them since mother bought hers, are most wonderful. Ours has all the latest, including the Wire Gauxe Onen Doors. I don't understand the process exactly, but they tell me that all meats cooked in ovens with these doors, retain their juices and flavors to a much greater degree than by any other means. Can you explain the theory, Charles?

CHARLES (the Husband)—I can't remember all that was told me, but I know the Doctor can give a most clear and scientific statement of the reasons, can you not Doctor?

Octor—Well, it is hardly professional to ask such information a doctor; in fact, I am inclined to think he would not be helping his practice much by saying anything in favor of the Charter Oak Stoves. But as I have one in my kitchen, and know something about it, I think I can enlighten you. Of course it would take quite a long lecture to explain everything to you scientifically, and we have not time for that. Count Rumford, an American, who was Knighted in Europe for his scientific attainments, pointed out, nearly a hundred years ago, that baking and roasting meats in air tight ovens was wrong, and he proved it by actual experiments. He asserted that it was as essential to health that our food should be cooked in pure, fresh air as that we should breathe pure, fresh air, and that air-tight ovens render the air impure, and the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy. But how to properly ventilate the oven was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time. The difficulty was to allow fr the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy. But how to properly ventilate the oven was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time. The difficulty was to allow fresh air to enter the oven uniformly without cooling it perceptibly, and this has been accomplished by Mr. Filley's invention of the Wire Gauze Oven Door. The air enters the oven through the wire gauze in the form of very fine jets, and as there is a large surface of gauze the air is diffused and heated without forming air currents to cool the oven. Cooking might be called a chemical decomposition with the aid of heat, but oxygen is as necessary as the heat, and this is furnished by the air. Again, the meat roasted in a tight oven loses a large part of its most nutritious juices, which become dried out. Ventilating the oven prevents this waste, and the meat is cooked perfectly in the same way as broiling over a charcoal fire or roasting in the old fashioned spit of our grandfather's time. Fresh air, or the oxygen furnished by the air, also improves the baking of bread making it much lighter and more easily digested. Bread baked in a Charter Oak Stove with Wire Gauze Oven Doors will never mould, and that is very strong proof that the bread is pure and healthy.

CHARLES—Thank you, doctor. I think we understand the reason much better now

California Asking for a Chance to Woo and Win an Ex-Slave's Daughter.

Sheriff Thomas is in trouble.

Several weeks ago The Constitution printed a letter received by Colonel Thomas, addressed to the sheriff of Georgia.

The letter was from a young Englishman living in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, inquiring the address of a contain or slows who of contain or slows who of contains or slows who can be contained to the contains of the con living in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, inquiring the address of a certain ex-slave who offered to present his daughter with a $15,000 dower upon her marriage to a respectable white man. The proposal was copied into other papers, finding its way to California, where it seems to have stirred up considerable competition and rivalry among various male citizens, who are anxious to depart the Pacific slope and begin life elsewhere, blessed with a better half of color, and also a $15,000 bank account.

Sheriff Thomas is in a quandary.

Sheriff Thomas is in a quandary.

Other Richmonds have entered the lists to win the black bride. Naturally, the new suitors apply to him for directions for reaching the ear of the indulgent ex-slave father and his dowered husband-hunting daughter. Colonel Thomas is in utter Ignorance of the whereabouts of the habitation of the pair, but, notwithstanding this, the inquiries from anxious Caucasians still continue to pour into his office, and he says if they do not soon close he will be compelled to secure the services of a

Below are given two, as specimens of those

One of them comes on fancy note paper, all decorated with flowers and butterflies, and, save for a tremendous blot resembling a dog's footprint, is calculated to have a powerful effect upon the nerves of any damsel of dusky color, the writer intending that it be forwarded to her of fifteen thousand dollar dower. He thoughtfully adds a postscript, stating that he is a single man, and never was married.

The other letter is written below a North Pacific Railway company letter head, the writer, evidently, being an employe of that road. This one thinks the "lady" should find no trouble securing a good lusband, and declares that he would not marry anybody on the Pacific slope, his sentiment being, that a "black good girl is better than a white bad one." The writer strikes a shoulder blow at the race problem, and starts out by saying that the ex-slave should not throw his money away on a foreigner—the Englishman first in the field.

Here are the lettars themselves. They are Here are the lettars themselves. They are interesting reading, if not for their social or literary character, certainly as curiosities.

The blotted one, with the floral emblem, which is in a cramped hand, begins:

I am A single man and have good folks never was married.

The other, which is in a very good business hand, on the railroad company's paper, and which appeals for social equality, is:

San Francisco and North Pacific, Railway Company, January 12.—Sheriff Thomas, of Allanta, Ga.—Dear Sir. I have noticed in this morning's Examiner an article seeking a black bride by a young Englishman. Please tell that old nigger to keep his money and not threw his money away on a foreigner, but give it to some American boy with his daughter. If the young lady is good she will have no trouble to get a good musband, for I do not see why a colored girl has not got as much right to marry a white man as well as a white women has to marry a colored man, and you will see that it is a common thing to see white women has to marry a colored man, and you will see that it is a common thing to see white women in the city of Cairo, lib., carry a black huby at her breast suckling it, and why should not that colored lady marry a white man as well as the other party, but when she does, let her marry her own nationality; someone she knows something about. I glory in the old man that thinks so much of his daughter, and there is one thing I shall condesend to tell you that we have in our state white and blacks or colored, living together and married, and I do not see why they should not, for if you saw the deprayity in this city, you would be surprised, between the whites. As for myself, I would not marry a woman on the Pacific coast—a white one—unless I knew her from infancy. It is worse to pick out a wife here, thon it is to pick out a lottery ticket. So you can draw your conclusions. If I was going to mary, I should prefer a dark, good girl to a bed white girl.

So, Mr. Sheriff, if you send ne the old man's address; I should like very much to correspond with him. Hoping soon to hear from you, I remain your friend and well-wisher,

Jas. S. Moore,

San Francisco, Cal.

P. S.—I will send you the Sunday Examiner.

Yours truly.

OFFICE OF JUDGE

NEW YORK, January 15, 1890. -Messrs. Thornton & Grubb, Atlanta, Ga. Gentlemen: Yours has been received. The demand for the edition of "Judge" of which you speak was enormous, and our supply was quickly exhausted, so that we were unable to respond to the News company's requisition on us for the 300 copies desired by you. We haven't any copies outside of our files at present which we can spare, but we shall undoubtedly get some back from the railroads in the returns next week. If not too late then, we will be glad to send the 300 to you. Will you please advise us whether that will do?

Very truly yours,
THE JUDGE PUB. CO.

In reference to the above letter we have telegraphed our order for 300 copies, and more, if we can get them, and expect them every day, and hope to be able to fill all orders for same.

What the Manufacturer Can Do!

The manufacturer can furnish the consumer with a better grade of clothing for less money than the retail merchant can buy them for. This stands to reason, as the manufacturer has no middleman's profits or commissions to add to the cost of each garment he sells.

Not only have we the ability to demonstrate this, but we have the disposition, which fact is shown by our
